

Jon Salter

TOO GENERIC

Where's the personality?

How are you engaging your reader from the start?

Profile

I am a hard-working team-player with extensive experience developing software for a number of reputed companies and proven track-record designing high performance solutions to complex problems.

Skills

Technical

- Specialities: JavaScript, Node.js, React, MongoDB, MySQL, AWS, Serverless
- Previous: TCL, Java, C++, AngularJS
- Others: Python, HTML5, CSS, SASS, SQL, Shell Scripting (Linux)
- Testing: Jest, Enzyme, Karma, Mocha, ChaiJS, Protractor, Sinon
- DB's: Postgres, Elasticsearch, Informix DB, Memcached
- Tools: GIT, CVS, SVN, CircleCI
- Webservers: Nginx, Apache Webserver

Personal

- Great communication skills.
- Highly adaptive to new technology.
- Team leadership & peer mentoring.
- Strong analytical skills.
- Self-motivated and strong drive.

TOO BORING

Assume all other candidates have these skills too.

How are you standing out from the crowd?

Employment History

Senior Software Engineer, Workonomics, London

JANUARY 2018 – PRESENT

Responsible for development, support, and maintenance of new recruitment tool. CMS integration. Implemented A/B tests. Performed code reviews.

Technologies: React, Redux, HTML/CSS, JavaScript (ES.Next with Flow), Node.js, AWS, DynamoDB, Jest, GraphQL.

Software Engineer, Workonomics, London

JANUARY 2015 – DECEMBER 2017

Rebuilt homepage. Implementation of new features.

Technologies: React, Redux, HTML/CSS, JavaScript (ES.Next with Flow), Node.js, AWS, DynamoDB, Jest, GraphQL.

Education

Bachelors in Computer Science, University of Reading

Other

Side Projects

Built mobile app to provide a daily song suggestion.

Details

07843 842362

jon@workonomics.co.uk

Links

LinkedIn

GitHub

ZERO CONTEXT

What did you use these for, and how?

Are they all still relevant today?

Tech lists leave too many questions unanswered.

POOR FORMAT

Bullet points are friends.

Repetitive use of tech buzzwords = wasted space.

This section is the most important, so should be higher on the page.

TOO BASIC

What value have you added to the business besides your core responsibilities?

How can you quantify that?